Current Situation

No rain is forecasted through Monday (9/22/08). Flooding continues to be an issue throughout northwest Indiana. Power and drinking water continues to be an issue in the southeast part of the State. The Indiana State Emergency Operations Center remains activated at a Level 3 to monitor conditions and provide resource to support to local agencies.

The state EOC has requested FEMA to send a logistics expert to assist with requests, has requested the Army Core of Engineers to send a coordination /support staff person and was notified of a fuel supply shortage in the counties bordering Louisville and Cincinnati.

The dam at Lake Dalecarlia continues to hold and water is receding below the roadway. Indiana Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Water Division continues to express concerns regarding the structure integrity of the dam and potential long term issues. Local fire department personnel continue to monitor.

Flooding of sections of Interstate 80/94 (from IL state line through Lake County), a major thoroughfare from Chicago east across Indiana, continues to be a priority. Crews and pumps are working around the clock.

The Indiana Toll Road Concession Company is not charging tolls for motorists from the West Point Toll Plaza, 1 Mile Post, to the Willow Creek Toll Plaza, 22.8 mile Post. This includes the Lake Station toll Plaza, 21 mile Post. Motorists are traveling through the plazas without stopping. These tolls are being suspended to help alleviate traffic congestion.

The Crawford County EMA reported that the elementary school is setting up food operations. Numerous counties in District 10 (southwest corner of Indiana) are assisting Crawford County by providing generators, food, equipment and manpower. Additional police patrols will be held in Crawford County. Two State Troopers will be on patrol. ISP Troopers will also be providing security at the fairgrounds when the water distribution begins.

Washington Co. reported mass care issues regarding feeding people still without power. The Salvation Army and a local church are assisting.

Dearborn County reported that 4,000-5,000 residents are still without power and may not be restored until Friday and Saturday. Most of the gas stations have run out of fuel. Distributors have also run out of fuel.

Jennings County Emergency Management Agency reported 80% of the county is without power and earliest restoration is Saturday. Need water for Lovett and Marion townships. Running low on fuel in the county and starting to ration fuel. Have temporary shelter and may need to have it go to a full shelter facility.

Boil orders continue for Scott, Brown and St Joseph counties. Power outages in southern counties have created water production shortages. Finding additional generator sources for water facilities and fuel re-supply, as well as providing drinking water resources, are of top priority. Harrison and Crawford Co. have little water pressure due to power outages and will be receiving additional water.

Indiana Utility Regulatory Commission (IURC) reports 70,368 customers are still without power.

Hoosiers who sustained damage caused by flooding beginning September 13 are urged to call 888.335.9490 to report damage. The number will be staffed from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday by the Indiana Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives.
